DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-11,19-32,43,53-58,60-65, drawn to a saddle pad, classified in class 54, subclass 65.
 - II. Claims 12-18,44-47,59, drawn to a method of riding a living subject, classified in class 54, subclass 44.1.
 - III. Claims 33-42, drawn to a method of manufacturing a saddle pad, classified in class 5, subclass 652.
 - IV. Claims 48-52, drawn to a method of doing business, classified in class 705, subclass 500.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the process can be practiced with another materially different product. For example, one can perform the method of riding a living subject by directly sit on the back of the subject or merely placing a saddle on the subject or using a saddle blanket instead of the saddle pad.
3. Inventions I and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the product can be made by another materially different process. For example, the saddle pad can be made by two sheets of material sewn together to enclose the padding inside.

4. Inventions I and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different effects. For example, the saddle pad is for cushioning a rider; however, the method of doing business is for making a business transaction or sales on the product.

5. Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different functions. For example, invention II functions to teach a user to ride a living subject; however, invention III teaches a user how to manufacture a saddle pad, which is different function from riding a living subject.

6. Inventions II and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different functions. For example, invention

II functions to teach a user to ride a living subject; however, invention IV teaches a user how to do business, which is different function from riding a living subject.

7. Inventions III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different functions. For example, invention III teaches a user how to manufacture a saddle pad; however, invention IV teaches a user how to do business.

8. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

9. A telephone call was made to Robert Gazdzinski on 11/9/04 & 12/8/04 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
